Historical/Biographical Notes

Born about 1850 in Rhode Island, Charles A. Ballou moved to Worcester, MA where he lived with his wife Eva L. Ballou, as well as his children Herbert A., Charles E., Lucy, and Willard as well as a young woman named Hattie Ross. He was the owner of a paint and wallpaper store at 143 Main St, but also was a great poultry enthusiast. Breeding and showing chickens for over eleven years, he was elected to the committee and later as president of the Bay State Poultry Association. An honest citizen, he was also elected member of the Mechanics Association in 1889.

Scope and Content

Collection contains magazines and pamphlets relating to poultry and agricultural fairs, as well as the diary account books of Charles A. Ballou. It also contains correspondences (personal, wallpaper business, and poultry business related), premiums won at fairs, wallpaper ledgers, wallpaper samples, and receipts of transaction for his wallpaper business as well as his personal life. Collection also contains school papers and diaries of his son, Charles E. Ballou, as well as a personal ledger of another one of his sons, Herbert A. Ballou. The dates of the collection range from 1860-1898.
