Biographical Information

Members of the Bloom family, one of the Swedish-American families that immigrated to Worcester in the 19th century, lived on Thenius Street in the city through the mid 20th century. The bulk of the collection consists of various financial records of Bror Bloom, with additional records of other members of the Bloom family, especially those of his sons Raymond and William Bloom.

Bror Bloom was employed at American Steel and Wire Company from before the early 1930s to the 1955, when he presumably retired. During his later years he was a foreman in the South Works. His two sons, Raymond and William, were students in the late 1930s, employees at the South Works around 1940-1941. Both enlisted in the Navy during World War II, and after the war, both resumed employment at the South Works for a few years. By the late 1940s no further mention of Raymond or William Bloom is found. Both William & Raymond continued to work at the South Works until they retired about the same time the mill closed (late 60's - early 70's).
Records of other members of the Bloom family date from before 1900, along with records of other Swedish-American families.

Both William & Raymond graduated from WORC. Bay Trade School in the late '30's.

Both William & Raymond purchased land on Worthington Ave. in Shrewsbury and built houses adjacent to each other. William and his 3 adult children still live ~~in~~ in their own homes on the Worthington Ave property purchased by William & Raymond in the late 1940's.

Scope and Content

The Bloom Family Collection provides insight into the financial aspects and the standard of living through three generations of a Swedish-American blue-collar family employed in local industry, through a comprehensive collection of payroll records – pay envelopes and pay stubs – and receipts for all household and living expenses. The records of income and expenses are virtually complete between the early 1930s and middle 1950s, and partial from the 1890s to the 1930s. These records portray a detailed view of the life, economics, and lifestyles of this family.

In addition, the records provide detailed information on industrial wages and wage paying procedures, from the pay envelope with cash wages, to payment by check. The records also provide information on retail credit and billing procedures, and other business matters.

A number of membership cards, meeting schedules, by-laws, etc. indicate interests of family members, as well as providing insight into leisure time activities of family members.

American Steel and Wire Company series includes personal notes and memoranda of Bror Bloom in his capacity as Foreman at the South Works, along with requisition and parts order forms, work schedules of employees, personnel cost evaluations, along with other records indicating the job duties and responsibilities of a Foreman in the South Works during the period ca. 1945-1955.
