Historical/Biographical Notes

George Maynard was born in Paxton, June 16, 1850. His father and mother were linear descendants of John Maynard and Edmund Rice, who settled in Sudbury, Mass., about 1638. He left Paxton for Worcester in 1869, where, after trying his hand at various kinds of business, finally drifted into a machine shop. He was widely known as a writer and lecturer. He could read in many languages, including Asiatic dialects, and taught English literature in a private school. For many years he was a printer in Worcester.. He died in August 1917.

Scope and Content

Collection contains diaries covering the years 1862 – 1909 written by George Maynard. Also included are lecture notes, biographical notes and poetry.
